Lost In America A Journey

"Lost in America" is Nuland's attempt to secure an understanding of his immigrant father, rather than the escape he long sought as a young man. With unflinching realism, honest assessments, and just enough humor to balance the text, Nuland movingly portrays his love/hate relationship with his father as he grows up in a Jewish section of the Bronx through his father's solitary death after Nuland has become a physician.

Lost in America: A Dead-End Journey is Colby Buzzell's response to his publishers pitch to update an American classic. Instructed to retrace Kerouac's footsteps and paint a contemporary portrait of America and to write a love letter to Kerouac, Buzzell wholeheartedly agrees and immediately cashes the advance check.

Lost in America: A Dead-End Journey by Colby Buzzell

Buzzell unearths America's bones in all their beauty and starkness. And like the veterans of Hemingway's Lost Generation, he struggles to reconcile his wanderlust with his responsibilities as a man and a father. Lost in America is a stunning account of the ravages of war on one individual. It also reveals deep truths about a more universal journey: the struggle to find our place in the world--without a map.
