The life of a prophet is a stripping away process. Everything that is of himself will one day have to face the fiery furnace. Oftentimes one will see that they are not received in the regular church setting. Their message may not be received, but they are called to give it anyway. They may find that they are not readily received, even in their own household.

The Life of a Prophet ~ by Stephen Hanson

Prophet Ibrahim prepared to make a painful sacrifice. At the crucial moment when the sharp-bladed knife touched his son's jugular vein, Allah caused another miracle: A ram, a sheep, appeared where Isma'il patiently awaited his fate. Instead of Isma'il, the ram was slaughtered. Ismail's life was spared. Prophet Ibrahim's trial was over.
